

Jacob need to drive to be able to get to his job. He has an obsession for being early and greeting those how come after him.

train

shutterstock.com · 464579180

There is a train right next to the company he works at. He tries to beat the train by being earlier but its always there ahead of him. This has led him to stress and loss lots of sleep.

So frustrating!

He tries to find alternate routes himself, but due to his lack of attention he always gets lost. He's heard of an app that will find alternate routes and the time of the train!

WOW! I've never seen this before!

He uses the app and not only is he able to find the perfect time to get past the train but also an alternate route that hes never seen before!

He shared about the app to his coworkers and now they all use it because everyone else was having the same problem. Due to the reward system he is able to customize his own train tracker app!

shutterstock.com · 464579180

Jacob can finally go back to having a normal sleep schedule and greeting those who come after him at his work place!